JAPAN'S NAVAL STRATEGY

Developments in the Philippines sector have made it clearer that the Japanese navy will not fight the American Navy until Admiral Nimitz's ships sail into Japanese home waters for the inevitable frontal attack. It is not that the Japanese lack the will for a fanatical sea fight. It is because there is no such thing as sea warfare in the Japanese book of strategy.

Historians can trace Japanese strategy as far back as the sixth century to demonstrate that the Nipponese looked upon sea vessels as a means of transport and not as battle craft.

Curiously, the term "beachhead" appeared in Japanese history as early as 1597. In this respect, it is interesting to note that the Japanese even then regarded warships as the protective fleet around the troopships which were delivering men to establish the beachhead.

American and British navy men figure always in terms of "calculated risk." Anglo-American naval strategy is a brilliant combination of courage, daring and imagination and has long been so. The history books are filled with many an example of heroics on the sea.
But not so with the Japanese.
There is no such thing in their admirals' training. There is rather a protective squadron theme with the only waters in which battle can be offered being the "basic sea area" surrounding Japan proper.

It was so in the Russo-Japanese war. It probably will be so in this war. The Japanese navy will avoid any direct fight until the last moment. Those Japanese admirals who had had the misfortune to get in the way of the American Navy and have managed to flee must certainly be despairing about the fight that is to come some other day.

ONE-MAN PROPAGANDA

The terrible consequences of government-operated newspapers and radio broadcasting already are evident, but there remains a tiny minority which still hankers for government subsidy of press and radio. Apparently these people will not see what even the smallest step in this direction leads to.

Germany and Japan are not farfetched examples. The press and radio in prewar France were very close to national control.
This was one of the things that led to France's downfall.

There should be a warning in the reaction of captured German and Japanese soldiers. German soldiers, for example, have believed that New York was in ruin and Japanese soldiers astounded interpreters by being firmly convinced that the Japanese held San Francisco and other west coast cities.

It may take years to re-educate millions of young Germans and Japanese thus deliberately misled, lied to and deceived. It is what always has happened and always will, when free men give up their own control of communications.

"CALAMITY TOWN" by ELLERY QUEEN

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

In that long dreary body of testimony calculated to prove Jim Haight's sole opportunity, the only colorful spots were provided by Judge Eli Martin in cross-examination.

From the first the old lawyer's plan was plain to Ellery: to cast doubt . . . insinuate, imply . . .
"No."
"But you can't be sure!"
"No."
"You didn't have the defendant under observation every moment?"
"Of course not!"
"The defendant might have laid the tray of cocktails down for a moment or so?"
"No."
"Are you positive?"

Prosecutor Bradford quietly objects: the question was answered.
Sustained. Judge Newbold waves his hand patiently.
"Did you see the defendant prepare the cocktails?"
"No."
"Were you in the living room all the time?"

"You know I was!" This was Frank Lloyd; and he was angry.
To Lloyd, Judge Martin paid especial attention. The old gentleman wormed out of the witness his relationship with the Wright family —that he had been in love with the accused's wife, that he had been bitter when she turned him down for James Haight, that he had threatened the latter with bodily violence . . . Objection, objection, objection . . . But the old love situation managed to come out, enough of it to reawaken in the jury's minds the whole story of Frank Lloyd and Nora Wright.

All of which helped to create a doubt. The vengeful jilted "other" man. Who knows? Maybe—With the Wright family, who took the stand to testify to the actual events of the night, Judge Martin was impersonal—and cast more doubts. Nobody actually saw Jim Haight drop arsenic into the cocktail. Nobody could be sure . . .

But the prosecutor's case proceeded and, despite Judge Martin's wily obstructions, Bradford established: that Jim alone mixed the cocktails; that Jim was the only one who could have been certain the poisoned cocktail went to Nora; his intended victim, since he handed each drinker his or her cocktail; that Jim pressed Nora to drink when she was reluctant.

And there was the testimony of old Wentworth, who had been the attorney for John F.'s father and had drawn the latter's will. Wentworth testified that on Nora's marriage she received her grandfather's bequest of a hundred thousand dollars, held in trust for her until that "happy" event.

And the testimony of the five handwriting experts, who agreed unanimously that the three un-mailed letters addressed to Rosemary Haight—dated Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Year's—were in the accused's handwriting.

Then came Alberta Manaskas. It was through this servant that Carter Bradford brought out how, as the first letter had predicted, Nora took sick on Thanksgiving Day;
how Nora had another, and worse, attack of "sickness" on Christmas Day. Alberta went into detail about these "sicknesses."

Dr. Milo Willoughby's testimony, confirmed by the testimony of Coroner Salemon and the testimony of L. D. ("Whitey") Magill, State Chemist, established that the toxic agent which had made Nora Haight ill and caused the death of Rosemary Haight, was commonly known as white arsenic.

Then Prosecutor Bradford calls to the stand Myron Garback, proprietor of the High Village Pharmacy, Wrightsville. He testifies that "sometime during the previous October," James Haight had entered the pharmacy and asked for "a small tin of Quicks."

Q.—What exactly is Quicks?
A.—It is a preparation used for killing rodents and insect pests.
Q.—What is the lethal ingredient of Quicks?
A.—Arsenic trioxide.
Q.—In highly concentrated form?
A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—Did you sell the defendant a tin of this poisonous preparation?
A.—Yes, sir. It is a commercial preparation, requiring no prescription.

Q.—Did the defendant ever return to purchase more Quicks?
A.—Yes, sir, about two weeks later. He said he'd mislaid the can of stuff, so he'd have to buy a new can. I sold him a new can.
Q.—What did the defendant say to you, and what did you say to the defendant, on the occasion of his first purchase?

A.—Mr. Haight said there were mice in his house. I said I was surprised, because I never heard of house mice up on the Hill. He didn't say anything to that.
Cross-examination by Judge Eli Martin:—
Q.—Mr. Garback, how many tins of Quicks would you estimate you sold during the month of October last?

A.—That's hard to answer. A lot.
Q.—Twenty-five? Fifty?
A.—Somewhere around there.
Q.—Then it's not unusual for customers to buy this poisonous preparation?
A.—No, sir, not unusual at all.
Q.—Then how is it you remembered that Mr. Haight purchased some—remembered it for five months?

A.—It just stuck in my mind.
Maybe because he bought two tins
so closely together.
Q.—You're positive it was two cans, two weeks apart?
A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—Mr. Garback, do you keep records of your Quicks sales, listed by customer?

A.—I don't have to, Judge. It's legal to sell—
Q.—Answer the question, Mr.
Garback; Have you a written record of James Haight's alleged purchases of Quicks?
A.—No, sir, but—
Q.—Then we just have your word, relying on your memory of two incidents you allege to have occurred five months ago, that the defendant purchased Quicks from you?

Prosecutor Bradford: Your Honor, the witness is under oath. He has answered Counsel's question not once, but several times. Objection.
Judge Newbold: Sustained. It seems to me witness has answered.
Eli Martin: That's all, thank you, Mr. Garback.

Alberta Manaskas is recalled to the stand. Questioned by Mr. Bradford, she testifies that she "never seen no rats or mice in Miss Nora's house." She further testifies that she "never seen no rat-killer, neither."

On cross-examination, Judge Martin asks Alberta if it is not true that in the tool chest in the cellar of the Haight house there is a large rat trap.
A.—Is there?
Q.—That's what I'm asking you,
Alberta.
A.—I guess there is, at that.

why do you suppose the Hights keep a rat trap?

Prosecutor Bradford: Objection.
Calling for opinion.
Judge Newbold: Sustained. Counsel, I'll have to ask you to restrict your cross-examination to—Judge Martin (humbly): Yes,
Your Honor.

Emeline DuPré testifies that she is a dramatic and dancing teacher residing "right next door to Nora Wright's house." During the previous November and December she "happened to overhear" frequent quarrels between Nora and James Haight. The quarrels were about Mr. Haight's heavy drinking and numerous demands for money.
There was one markedly violent quarrel, in December, when Miss DuPré heard Nora Haight refuse to give her husband "any more money." Did Miss DuPré "happen to overhear" anything to indicate why the defendant needed so much money?

A.—That's what shocked me so,
Mr. Bradford—
Q.—The Court is not interested in your emotional reactions, Miss DuPré. Answer the question, please.

A.—Jim Haight admitted he'd been gambling, and losing plenty,
and that's why he needed money.
Q.—Was any name or place mentioned by either Mr. or Mrs. Haight in connection with the defendant's gambling?

A.—Jim Haight said he'd been losing a lot at the Hot Spot on Route 16—

On cross-examination, Judge Martin reduces Miss DuPré to indignant tears. He brings out that she crouched by her bedroom window in darkness listening to the voices floating warmly across the driveway between her house and the Hights—confuses her in the matter of dates and times involved, so that she clearly contradicts herself several times.

The spectators enjoy themselves.
Then J. P. Simpson, proprietor of Simpson's Pawnshop, testifies that in November and December last James Haight pledged various items of jewelry at Simpson's Pawnshop.

Q.—What kind of jewelry?
A.—First one was a man's gold watch—he took it off his chain to pawn it.
Q.—Is this the watch?
A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—Will you read the inscription on the watch, Mr. Simpson?

A.—"To Jim—from Nora."
Q.—What else did the defendant pawn?
A.—Gold and platinum rings, a cameo brooch, and so on.
Q.—Do you recognize these items of jewelry I now show you, Mr.
Simpson?

A.—Yes, sir. They're the ones he pawned with me.
Q.—These last items are all women's jewelry, are they not?
A.—That's right.
Q.—Read the various inscriptions, Aloud.
A.—"N.W."—"N.W."—"N.W.H."—"N.W."

Nora's jewelry is placed in evidence.
Q.—One last question, Mr. Simpson. Did the defendant ever redeem any of the objects he pawned with you?

A.—No, sir.
Judge Martin waves cross-examination.

FARMERS WANT BAN LIFTED ON PRICES

Action Should Be Taken Before "Little Steel Formula" Is Lifted

LL BOOST COSTS

By Suzanne Flick
(I. N. S. Farm Editor)

BRISBURY, Sept. 29—A resolute demand for the unshackling of farm prices before the "Little Steel Formula" is lifted was made by the Pennsylvania State Association of Farm Organizations and Pennsylvania Association of Representative Organizations during a session at the State Capitol.

General increase in wages will mean greatly increased costs to farmers," the resolution stated. "This should not be permitted unless ceilings are removed from farm products."

For nearly two years farmers have been deprived of the right to their products in the markets dictated by the laws of supply and demand. Under threats of prosecution, they have been forced to sell at prices which have been below the cost of production. Losses were suffered particularly in respect to poultry and milk products, it was pointed out, to add a general increase in prices to the present system of subsidies will be highly inflationary," it was added. "On the other hand, fair consumer prices for farm products would, to that end, remove one of the threats of inflation, namely, excessive consumer buying power. Another factor to be considered is that high wages will divert labor from farms to industry, thus decreasing output and increasing competition in labor."

Farmers were urged to plan a dual-sized pig breeding program for next Spring to prevent a recurrence of the present shortage which is expected to leave the State with short supplies for the next few months.

L. C. Madison, Pennsylvania State College swine specialist, predicted the autumn crop would be one-third that of 1943.

"Many gilts and sows have been sold which ordinarily would have been retained as breeders," he stated. "Farmers equipped to produce hogs efficiently should maintain a normal number of breeding animals as large quantities of pork will be needed long after the war ends."

The pre-harvest drop of apples can be retarded through the use of the hormone spray, according to J. L. McCartney, Penn State fruit specialist.

Spraying was found to be most effective when the temperature is 70 or more degrees, he stated. The results are best when spraying is done as soon as premature drop begins. Ripening is not hindered.

The Federal-State Crop Reporting Service has announced improvements in late bean, celery, spinach and tomato crops following early autumn rains.

The Service said the snap bean harvest would be completed by the end of the month while late tomato crops were moving to markets.

Celery and carrot yields were reported light, but sweet corn prospects were better.

FAMILIES LIVING ON FARMS URGED TO PRESERVE POULTRY

By Mary Jacoby Fleetham
(Home Economics Representative)

It is not only advisable but necessary that Bucks County families preserve their surplus poultry to use next winter. If freezer locker facilities are available, freezing is the most desirable way to preserve poultry. Freezing takes less time than canning and the flavor of the frozen product is more nearly like that of fresh poultry.

Select poultry of good quality, and after dressing, wash it carefully in cold water and cool thoroughly. Birds for roasting should be drawn and the cavity washed out well. Roasters can be frozen whole. Remove the excess fat from the abdominal and wishbone cavities, wrap the giblets in freezer-locker paper, and place in the body cavity.

By cutting broilers, fryers, and stewing chickens into pieces you can wrap them firmer and pack them in smaller spaces in the locker. Necks and backbones can be used for soup stock.

At some commercial locker plants, both cutting and wrapping of chicken may be done for you. Put if you are going to wrap your own, here are a few suggestions: Use special freezer-locker paper; separate the cut pieces of meat with freezer-locker paper; wrap the amount needed for one meal in one package; wrap broilers singly or by twos; wrap each carcass for roasting separately.

See that the wrapping paper comes in close contact with the chicken and that the package is tightly sealed to prevent freezer burn or drying out. A piece of stockinette pulled over the package will help to hold the paper closer to the poultry. Cut chicken may be packed in cartons made specially for holding foods to be frozen.

If you are using a commercial locker, take the packaged poultry to the plant as soon as possible. In a home freezer-unit, place the packages in single rows in the quick-freezing compartment, 10 to 20 degrees below zero. Stacking packages in single rows while freezing allows cold air to circulate freely around each package and hastens freezing. After the chicken is frozen, packages may be piled one on top of another and kept at zero degrees.

Further details on freezing poultry are given in Circular 251 which you may obtain upon request to Mrs. Mary Jacoby Fleetham in the Agricultural Extension Office, 75 N. Main street, Doylestown, Pa.

RATS!

JERSEY CITY—(INS)—Jersey City will have to deal with its own rat problem this year unassisted by the county, according to a ruling by the Hudson County Board of Freeholders. What's more the situation will have to be dealt with in a hurry because those rats on the city dumps are becoming a public nuisance, even if they don't bother Mayor Frank Hague who lives a long block away on the twelfth floor.

ROAD CONTRACT SIGNED

GUATEMALA—(INS)—The Guatemalan government has signed a contract for completion of Guatemala's section of the Inter-American highway. There is a passable road from the border of El Salvador to Mexico through Guatemala but it will be improved and shortened by joint action between Guatemala and the United States.

GI SOAP OPERA

presented by Atlantic

It's Ultrawet—exclusive development of Atlantic's research division—that puts our fighting forces in a lather.

When America went to war around the world, GI's yelled for a soap that could be used in any water . . . rain-water, hard water, salt water . . . Arctic to Equator.

The dream product demanded had to be good for washing clothes, bathing, shaving . . . anywhere, any time.

The Army Quartermaster Corps produced this all-purpose super-soap . . . using Ultra-wet as an ingredient. Ultrawet is included in official specifications for the soap.

Serving at every front (it's also used on battleships for fire-fighting foam), Ultrawet really is a peacetime development.

Atlantic scientists evolved it for industrial use in water containing chlorides, magnesium, iron . . . wherever ordinary soap doesn't lather well.

Today's Atlantic research is all for war—but out of it will come finer petroleum products for use in peace.

In Dublin borough a large truck of an Allentown silk mill which was loaded skidded off the high crown of Main street and crashed into a pole during the height of the storm. The pole was split and a large transformer fell to the ground and the borough was without street lights for three hours.

The damage to the truck is estimated at $2,000.

A shed was blown down on the farm of Frank Brezas, along the old Bethlehem pike. A tractor in a field was blown for a distance of 35 yards.

The roof was blown off the house of William Rosenberger, Hilltown, as well as a porch. A machinery shed was damaged and also a chicken house.

Trees were uprooted on the farm of Peter Hozler and one tree fell on a heifer in a meadow, breaking its leg.

A barn was blown down and the roof taken off the house of Alfred Crawford, Hilltown, and a covering was blown off a well and carried over to the next farm.

A chicken house was also destroyed on the farm of Oliver Graff, Hilltown.

a 14-mile sector along the river.

Nazi official sources betrayed fear of the coming offensive when a correspondent at the headquarters of Field Marshal Walter Von Model, German commander in the west, reported that over 2,500,000 Allied troops were poised along a 450-mile front from the Alps to the sea, awaiting the signal for a climactic drive against the Reich.

On the eastern front Russian armies converging on Riga made new progress toward the doomed Latvian capital in bloody fighting which reduced prepared Nazi defenses.

Other Soviet troops driving south from southern Poland lanced across the Czechoslovakian frontier, accelerating the drive of the northern wing of the Soviet pincers aimed at knocking Hungary from the war.

Red Army troops slashing four miles within Czechoslovakia seized the important railroad town of Vydran.

In aerial action squadrons of American Marauders and Mitchells roared across the channel from England to support ground forces battling on the western front. While the bulk of Allied planes swept out toward Holland, some formations headed for Calais and Dunkerque to pound German hold out garrisons.

On the Italian front American Fifth Army forces smashed back Nazi defenses in mountainous terrain above Florence after taking the heights of Bastione, Oggiolo and Canda dominating the main Florence-Bologna road. Farther east other Fifth Army units drove ahead to gain on Imola.

From the southwest Pacific, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported that U. S. patrol bombers had sunk a 10,000-ton transport and damaged a 6,000-ton freighter transport off Jolo, in the Sulu archipelago.

jacked from the pay envelopes of American workmen; by a pressure organization to corner the votes of all those workmen who need their jobs; by the intimidation of Congress through the threat of retaliation in their home districts; and by the possible use of corrupt election procedures coupled with pressure voting to overthrow and shackle free elections.

To accept such a program would do violence to every public statement of political principle which President Roosevelt has ever uttered.

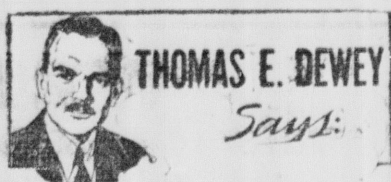

Both as a matter of self-interest and public welfare he ought to be fighting such a program tooth and nail.

This vicious giant, the Communist-P. A. C. plot, could have been scotched in the cradle; it could have been brought to heel in infancy by use of the Federal election code. But the time for such remedies now has passed.

The monster is now at large,—and the President is the inventor—the Dr. Frankenstein—in whose White House workshop it was created.

There is but one way now by which President Roosevelt can help destroy this political monstrosity.

That is by voting for the Republican Party's "racket-buster" Candidate for the Presidency, Governor Thomas E. Dewey.

Unity Needed

local governments has been a continuous source of friction for twelve years. There have been enough people spending their full time fighting each other over the question of jurisdiction and power between Federal, State and local governments to make up a small army.

"We conceive it to be our first obligation to bring agreement out of this chaos and to bring unity where there is only sub-unity now."

"It is for this reason that the Republican Party will make an effort to settle the area of responsibility. If we are successful, it means that the dangerous spectacle of petty bickering and constant confusion between the various units of government will come to an end next January 20."

Other American planes, striking with increased strength from the Celebes to the Solomons, continued to carry the relentless air war to Jap land, air and shore positions.

One Jap plane attempted to raid American positions on Morotai Island in the Halmaheras. The attempt was without success.

Featuring the meeting of the Warrington Lions Club were informal talks by the members who gave brief accounts of their experiences in different parts of this country and in Canada.

The meeting, attended by 30 persons, was in charge of President Henry W. Gargus, and during the business session Edward K. Wiest was welcomed into membership. Announcement was made of a ball game to be played at Warrington on Sunday afternoon, when the proceeds will be given to Arnold Blythe, who was injured in a game two weeks ago. The club's bowling team will be represented at the matches which will begin in Hattboro on Monday.

KNOW YOUR STATE

Pennsylvania is known throughout the entire world for its great resources of coal, the high quality of its oil and its enormous production of iron and steel, cement and limestone. One natural resource in which the State is particularly well-endowed has made possible the development of all the rest. That is the abundant supply of its surface and sub-surface waters.

Along the courses of the Delaware, the Schuylkill, the Susquehanna, the Allegheny, the Monongahela and Ohio have grown up most of those great industries of the Commonwealth which have made its name familiar to the people of every land. Below the surface of the hills and valleys of our limestone area in the southeast of the State also lie hidden tremendous resources of subterranean water which finally break out to the surface in those enormous springs which attract visitors from many parts of our country.

Deep under the limestone rocks of Pennsylvania flow rivers which are today carving out the caves which will astonish the men of the future. The water of these subterranean streams is cold and clear with a year-round temperature that varies little above or below 50 degrees. When such streams finally escape to the surface, there results such an astonishing and seemingly miraculous flow of water as that familiar to us all at Boiling Springs in Cumberland County not far from Carlisle.

The flow of this spring, as measured by the Bureau of Hydrography of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, averages 22½ million gallons a day. This cold clear water, with an average of 53 degrees, bursts up from the surface of the ground at a rate of 15,000 gallons a minute and becomes at once the source of a considerable stream. The flow of this single spring would be adequate to supply the entire needs of a city of 200,000 people.

Three miles south of Boiling Springs, also in Cumberland County, is the Big Spring at Newville whose colder waters, with an average of 50 degrees, are discharged at the rate of 18½ million gallons every day.

BORDENTOWN IS DEFEATED, 7 TO 0, BY ST. FRANCIS XI

A Pass, Oppold to Cupo, Results in Touchdown For Eddington Team

LAST FIVE MINUTES

Bordentown's Only Opportunity Came in The Third Session

BORDENTOWN, Sept. 29.—A pass, Don Oppold to Mario Cupo, gave St. Francis Vocation School a touchdown yesterday afternoon which was enough to beat the Bordentown Manual Training School, 7-0, on the latter's field. The game was originally scheduled to be played today but officials decided to play the game one day earlier.

The touchdown play came within the last five minutes of the game. Cupo broke loose on an end around run and clipped off thirty yards to bring the ball to the 10-yard strip. From here Oppold rifled his pass to Cupo for the touchdown. Oppold converted the extra point by hitting the line.

Bordentown's only opportunity came in the third session when a sustained drive by J. Johnson leading the attack brought them to the St. Francis 30-yard march. Here the Vocational School boys held for downs.

St. Francis lost a chance to score early in the final period when LaRow got off with a brilliant punt to the Bordentown team. Here the pigskin was fumbled and recovered by the Eddington team. But using its weight to a good advantage, the Jersey team held and received the ball on downs.

Although Cupo and Oppold made the touchdown possible, the playing of LaRow stood out for the winners. LaRow played both end and took Cupo's place in the backfield when the latter was injured. He made good at both positions.

It has been announced by Brother Beville that the game with Bordentown will be played next Thursday on the Eddington field instead of next Friday.

Three Rotarians Are Honored for Services

ing Gordon Fromm. One new member, the Rev. W. Preston Haas, was welcomed into the club.

Following a brief historical sketch of the founding of Rotary different members outlined the aims of the organization. Rotary was started in 1905 by Paul Harris, a Chicago lawyer. In 1910 the International Rotary was formed. Today there are over 4000 clubs throughout the world.

John Stlemmer, speaking on the first object of Rotary, the development of acquaintances, stated that in Rotary meetings we know we are among understanding and sympathetic friends.

High ethical standards in business and the professions, the second object of Rotary, was discussed by Otto Grupp, Jr., who declared that this object is the recognition of the worthiness of all useful work as an aid to society.

The third object, community service, was discussed by Dr. J. Fred Wagner who declared that the Rotarian applies this to his own personal business and to the community at large.

E. Leslie Helwig dwelt on the fourth object of Rotary, the advancement of international good will and understanding. He pointed out that military men, statesmen, and politicians have toyed for world peace without much success. Peace and good will cannot be forced on a people, and it is up to Rotary to tackle the great problem of world peace. We must understand the problems of other peoples and we must learn to recognize their differences. If we are to succeed, was the thought of Mr. Helwig.

Game Scheduled for Tomorrow Afternoon on High School Field

COACH MAKES DEBUT Undecided As To Starting Lineup for Opening Home Game

Anxious to break into the win column, the Bristol high school bunnies will inaugurate its home season tomorrow afternoon meeting the fast George School eleven. Last season, Bristol scored a 6-0 triumph over the George School gridders.

Coach Harold Stackhouse will also make his debut to the local fandom. The Bristol team played at Dunn Field, Trenton, last Friday night and lost by a 31-0 count. Coach Stackhouse came here from Catasauqua High where he produced several championship clubs.

All week, Coach Stackhouse has been busy correcting the faults discovered in the game against Trenton Catholic. Stackhouse feels that his boys should have at least scored against the Catholic team although the Trenton club was much better than the locals.

The Bristol mentor is undecided as to whom he will have in his lineup for tomorrow.

starting line-up for George School. It is almost certain that Howard Keyes will be at one of the end posts with the nod leaning towards Favoroso on the other end. Constantino and Feole look like the tackles with Monachello and Lelinski being the guards. Center will be a toss-up between Lou Mari and Mickey Mandio.

An injury to John Parrell will practically keep him on the sidelines in this contest. Joe McDevitt and "Toby" Oriola were also injured against Trenton Catholic but appear to be in shape for this week's contest. So it looks like John Capriotti and John Centonze will start in the backfield along with Bill Nysse.

Coach Frescomb, of George School, still has several of his stars from last season in his line-up and his boys are out to avenge last season's defeat.

Morrisville High will play another game tomorrow night, meeting Riverside High under the lights at Morrisville. Starting time is given as eight o'clock. Morrisville was licked by Trenton High, 31-0, last week.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS
BY JOE ELBERSON

Nine bass in one evening... Pat McGee, Linden Street, took nine largemouths in a short stretch of the Canal in the Green Lane section one evening last week. Pat was using his old dependable Haye's feathered minnow which has been his standby for more than a score of years. "The bass were jumping all over—I had two on the first five casts—and I lost several in addition to the nine I landed," Pat told me.

Pheasants released... six crates of young birds were received from the Game Commission for stocking in this area last Thursday evening. Three crates were for the Edgely Rod & Gun Club and three for the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association. There were twelve birds in each crate.

I helped Bill Bossler, Game Committee chairman, release the birds assigned to the Bristol Club. Eighteen of the 36 birds were dead on arrival, and the remaining birds were in terrible condition. They were one of the worst lot of pheasants ever sent here. The Edgely Club probably experienced the same condition.

Delays in transportation from the Illinois game farm from which the Commission purchased the birds probably is the explanation for the poor condition of the birds.

A check the following morning in one spot where Bill and I had released four birds revealed that two of them had died overnight. There is a slight possibility that the Commission may replace a part of these birds before hunting season this fall.

Call to delegates of the Bucks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs... the next meeting of the Federation will be held next Monday evening, October 2nd, in the K. G. E. Building, Main St., Doylestown, at 8 p. m. Hope to see all the clubs from the lower end of the County represented. Don't have to worry about the upper-end clubs... they always have their delegates on hand.

Two thousand dinners... last Saturday morning a truck arrived at Silver Lake with a load of 2,000 large tadpoles. They make excellent bass feed and if there are enough bass in the Lake to take care of that many tadpoles they should certainly have some tasty meals in the next few weeks. The shipment came from the State Fish Hatchery at Torresdale. Superintendent Wopart, who drove the truck to the Lake, told me that he will be up again in a few weeks with another load of catfish and bluegills for the Lake.

Everyone is asking "Why?" after the adult fishing contest conducted by the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association at Silver Lake on Sunday the question has arisen as to why there are no fish in the Lake, or if there are any, why can't they be caught. At least 150 men tried every type of lure and bait all day Sunday with no results. There was one legal bass taken during the whole day. The winning entry was a 14-ounce catfish! Your scribe shame-facedly admits landing the catfish and the bass. Both were taken on golden shiners.

DEVASTATING CARRIER-PLANE ASSAULT CARRIED OUT ON ENEMY POSITIONS IN JAP-HELD ISLANDS; 65 "JAP" SHIPS DESTROYED OR DAMAGED, 36 PLANES DEMOLISHED

Wrecked Japanese Shipping Clutters Road To Philippines

GIGANTIC AIR BLOW

Attacks Made On Cebu, Leyte, Jactan, Southern Luzon Islands

By International News Service
Wrecked Japanese shipping cluttered the American road back to the Philippines today in the wake of the third devastating carrier-plane assault on enemy positions in those Jap-held islands.
A total of 65 Jap ships were destroyed or damaged and 36 planes were demolished by a carrier-borne attack on Cebu, Leyte, Jactan and southern Luzon islands and the water surrounding. The assault was made by far ranging carriers of Admiral William F. Halsey's Third Fleet under personal command of Vice-Admiral Marc A. Mitscher.
Of the Jap planes destroyed during the latest raid on enemy forces in the Philippines, 29 were wrecked on the ground, while seven—the entire number which took the sky to combat the American blows—were blasted in aerial combat.
Since September 8, besides dealing a crippling blow to Jap surface vessels in the Philippine area, American carrier-borne planes have destroyed a total of 1,014 planes in that area.
The toll of surface shipping included in the devastation wrought by the latest Jap raid included a destroyer, a troop transport, three large cargo ships, three large tankers and 14 smaller vessels.
All told, 43 other Jap vessels were listed as damaged or probably sunk in the air blow.
American losses in the attack were 10 aircraft, with five pilots and three crewmen listed as missing.
On the European western front, British Second Army forces expanding their offensive corridor through the Netherlands steadily narrowed the escape gap for Nazi forces facing entrapment in western Holland.
German units west of Allied positions in Holland were reported seeking to withdraw north, between Arnhem and the Zuider Zee, and then east to avoid encirclement and to attempt to bolster the northern end of the Siegfried line in preparation for a threatened, all-out Allied attack.
Allied forces probing eastward from Netherlands positions seized additional territory along the Maas (Meuse) river, posing a mounting threat to the Nazi industrial Ruhr and Rhineland as they consolidated.

UP-TO-PRESS-TIME WAR BULLETINS

(By International News Service)

AMERICAN ARMIES BREACH GERMAN LINES

Supreme Headquarters, A. E. F.—American armies striking at the Germans along a 130-mile front from Luxembourg to the Belfort Pass in France were reported by the Nazis today to have breached German lines on both sides of the road leading to Belfort and Montbeliard.
Word that breaches had been smashed into German positions on the approaches to the vital Belfort Gap came from the Nazi Transoceanic News Agency at the same time Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters announced that American and French forces of the Sixth Army group had advanced on several sectors and won towns on the northeast approaches to the Belfort Pass. On the approaches to Belfort the towns of Bult and Destord were occupied against strong artillery and mortar resistance. The Allies captured Docelles and several villages between Tendon and St. Anne.
The Germans tried an unsuccessful strong counter-attack at Cleure, southeast of Remiremont where the enemy is well dug in.
The Allies maintained positions in the Moselle Valley, where they now are well dug in, and repulsed several counter-attacks in the Thillot area. Southwest of Thillot an advance of up to five miles was scored, and several towns were liberated between Melin and Thillot.
At the northern end of the battlefield troops of the British Second Army operating east of the Eindhoven-Nijmegen road slowly pushed the Germans back to clear the area along the Maas river near the German frontier.

DESTROY 82 NAZI TANKS

With the U. S. Third Army in France.—The American Third Army commanded by Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., exacted another heavy price from the Germans today, knocking out 82 Nazi tanks in 24 hours of fierce battling east of Nancy.
The major German losses were sustained in a gruelling battle for possession of the Parroy Forest in the Lunelle valley.
At the same time the 19th tactical air force scored its biggest bag in several weeks, shooting down 16 German planes out of 60 the enemy employed in making the strongest bid yet for mastery of the sky over the area held by Gen. Patton.
During the past 24 hours the tactical planes also dropped over 230 tons of bombs in more than 500 sorties.
Locomotives and freight cars were blasted and an enemy road convoy strafed.

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

Tons of food was produced during the past few months by Doylestown residents in the Victory Gardens, a large plot donated by the local School Board and the W. Atlee Burpee Company, on land owned by them in the west end of town.
Forty different individuals produced food on the tract, which was looked upon as one of the finest in the entire State by experts who have made inspection trips. In spite of the very dry season, these gardens were unusually successful.
William E. Wof, of Doylestown, athletic director at Doylestown High, and county chairman of the Victory Garden Committee, shared the title of "champion gardener" in the large garden, a tract larger than 50 feet by 75 feet, with Miss Caroline Nicholas, of 87 West street. Third prize was awarded to Russell Risher, of 416 West Court street, Doylestown.
In the small garden classification—50 feet by 75 feet or less—first honors went to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thomas, of 51 East Oakland avenue; second prize to Ray Cosner, 245 W. Ashland street, and third prize to Miss Mary Armstrong, 79 E. Ashland street, Doylestown.

Livestock, including the smaller type of pigs, sold rather slowly at the combination auction held on the property of the Rice brothers, Solebury. The offering of livestock with the exception of calves, sheep and goats, was about as large as usual, but there was a shortage of calves, sheep and goats. Only 12 calves were placed on sale and they brought from $1 to $32 each.
Between 600 and 700 persons attended the sale, proceeds of which amounted to $4120.71. The offering of poultry, the sale of which to—

Horticulturists, conservationists, foresters, nature lovers and other patriotic citizens, in great numbers, are to assemble at noon on Thursday, October 12th, at one of Pennsylvania's most historic sites—Bowman's Hill in Washington Crossing State Park—to dedicate a grove of native Pennsylvania trees.

WHY ROOSEVELT SHOULD VOTE FOR DEWEY

PART SIX: SIDNEY HILLMAN
President Roosevelt can strike a blow this Fall for the principles he says he believes in. All he needs to do is to vote for Dewey. . . .

(Doylestown Intelligencer, September 29th)

Except for the mere empty pride of being the only Fourth Term President in American history, President Roosevelt can have little other reason for favoring an election in which the real winner would be Sidney Hillman.

As President, he can hardly look forward with eagerness to having Hillman as a monkey on his back for four years.

As a Democrat, he can hardly view with anything but anxiety an outcome which would shipwreck his party. As an American, he can hardly sanction the creation of a backdoor dictator, boss over the President, boss over Congress,—immune from the courts, supreme over public elections.

As a professed supporter of the labor cause, he can hardly fail to see that the four-way deal between Communists, New Deal braintrusts, big-city Democratic bosses and Sidney Hillman is the gravest threat which American organized labor has ever faced—that public support of the labor movement may be lost for generations as a result of this gamble.

Said the 1932 platform of the Democratic Party, which President Roosevelt accepted "one hundred percent" and termed an "admirable Document":
"We advocate . . . strengthening of the Corrupt Practices Act. . . . We condemn the improper and excessive use of money in political activities."

Said the President in an address at Boston on October 31, 1932:
". . . let us fight our political battles with political arguments and not prey upon men's economic necessities."

In an address to a joint session of Congress on March 4, 1939, the President also said:
"The safety of the system of representative democracy is in the last analysis based on two essentials: first, that at frequent periods the voters must choose a new Congress and a new President; and second, that this choice must be made freely, that is to say without any undue force against or influence over the voter in the expression of his personal and sincere opinion."

In a letter to the New York Times on April 1, 1938, President Roosevelt wrote:
"I have too much historical background and too much knowledge of existing dictatorships to make me desire any form of dictatorship for a democracy like the United States."

But President Roosevelt knows, just as do all other thinking Americans,—of both parties—that Hillman's Political Action Committee program is an attempt to seize dictatorial power over the national government—seize it by means of millions of slush-fund dollars black—

Morrisville Soldier Killed When Hit By Truck

CAMDEN, N. J.—Pvt. John Klemmer, 32-year-old father of two children, was killed today when a farm truck struck him while he was walking along the Burlington Pike in nearby Pennsauken Township.

Klemmer, who was stationed at the Army air base at Fort Dix, was a resident of 117 Park Ave., Morrisville, Pa.
With Master Sergeant Frank Charkowick, 22, also of the air base, Klemmer was returning to Fort Dix when the truck, operated by Lester H. Friday, 29, of Riverton, struck him.
Friday was held in $1,000 bail on a manslaughter charge. Police said he told them he saw the soldiers a few seconds before the truck hit Klemmer. He closed his eyes, police quoted him as saying, and a moment later there was a dull thud, which jarred him back to wakefulness and he stopped.

JAPAN'S NAVAL STRATEGY

Developments in the Philippines sector have made it clearer that the Japanese navy will not fight the American Navy until Admiral Nimitz's ships sail into Japanese home waters for the inevitable frontal attack. It is not that the Japanese lack the will for a fanatical sea fight. It is because there is no such thing as sea warfare in the Japanese book of strategy.

Historians can trace Japanese strategy as far back as the sixth century to demonstrate that the Nipponese looked upon sea vessels as a means of transport and not as battle craft.

Curiously, the term "beach-head" appeared in Japanese history as early as 1597. In this respect, it is interesting to note that the Japanese even then regarded warships as the protective fleet around the troops which were delivering men to establish the beachhead.

American and British navy men figure always in terms of "calculated risk." Anglo-American naval strategy is a brilliant combination of courage, daring and imagination and has long been so. The history books are filled with many an example of heroics on the sea.

But not so with the Japanese. There is no such thing in their admirals' training. There is rather a protective squadron theme with the only waters in which battle can be offered being the "basic sea area" surrounding Japan proper.

It was so in the Russo-Japanese war. It probably will be so in this war. The Japanese navy will avoid any direct fight until the last moment. Those Japanese admirals who had had the misfortune to get in the way of the American Navy and have managed to flee must certainly be despairing about the fight that is to come some other day.

ONE-MAN PROPAGANDA

The terrible consequences of government-operated newspapers and radio broadcasting already are evident, but there remains a tiny minority which still bankers for government subsidy of press and radio. Apparently these people will not see what even the smallest step in this direction leads to.

Germany and Japan are not far-fetched examples. The press and radio in prewar France were very close to national control. This was one of the things that led to France's downfall.

There should be a warning in the reaction of captured German and Japanese soldiers. German soldiers, for example, have believed that New York was in ruins and Japanese soldiers as-tounded interpreters by being firmly convinced that the Japanese held San Francisco and other west coast cities.

It may take years to re-educate millions of young Germans and Japanese thus deliberately misled, lied to and deceived. It is what always has happened and always will, when free men give up their own control of communications.

"CALAMITY TOWN" by ELLERY QUEEN

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

In that long dreary body of testimony calculated to prove Jim Haight's sole Opportunity, the only colorful spots were provided by Judge Eli Martin in cross-examination.

From the first the old lawyer's plan was plain to Ellery: to cast doubt . . . insinuate, imply . . .

"But you can't be sure?"

"No."

"You didn't have the defendant under observation every moment?"

"Of course not!"

"The defendant might

FARMERS WANT BAN LIFTED ON PRICES

Action Should Be Taken Before "Little Steel Formula" Is Lifted

LL BOOST COSTS

By Suzanne Flicke
(I. N. S. Farm Editor)

ARRISBURG, Sept. 29—A resolution demanding the unshackling of farm prices before the "Little Steel Formula" is lifted was adopted by the Pennsylvania State Council of Farm Organizations and the Pennsylvania Association of Representative Organizations during a session at the State Capitol.

The general increase in wages will mean greatly increased costs to farmers, the resolution stated. "This should not be permitted unless ceilings are removed on farm products."

For nearly two years farmers have been deprived of the right to their products in the markets at prices dictated by the laws of supply and demand. Under threats of prosecution, they have been compelled in many instances to sell at prices which have been below the cost of production.

Losses were suffered particularly in respect to poultry and milk products, it was pointed out.

To add a general increase in prices to the present system of subsidies will be highly inflationary," it was added. "On the other hand, fair consumer prices for farm products would, to that extent, remove one of the threats of inflation, namely, excessive consumer buying power. Another factor to be considered is that high wages will divert labor from farms to industry, thus decreasing output and increasing competition in labor."

Farmers were urged to plan a small-sized pig breeding program for next Spring to prevent a recurrence of the present shortage which is expected to leave the State with short supplies for the next few months.

L. C. Madison, Pennsylvania State College swine specialist, predicted the autumn crop would be one-third that of 1943.

"Many gilts and sows have been sold which ordinarily would have been retained as breeders," he stated. "Farmers equipped to produce hogs efficiently should maintain a normal number of breeding animals as large quantities of pork will be needed long after the war ends."

The pre-harvest drop of apples can be retarded through the use of the hormone spray, according to J. L. McCartney, Penn State fruit specialist.

Spraying was found to be most effective when the temperature is 70 or more degrees, he stated. The results are best when spraying is done as soon as premature drop begins. Ripening is not hindered.

The Federal-State Crop Reporting Service has announced improvements in late bean, celery, spinach and tomato crops following early autumn rains.

The Service said the snap bean harvest would be completed by the end of the month while late tomato crops were moving to markets.

Celery and carrot yields were reported light, but sweet corn prospects were better.

FAMILIES LIVING ON FARMS URGED TO PRESERVE POULTRY

By Mary Jacoby Fleetham
(Home Economics Representative)

It is not only advisable but necessary that Bucks County families preserve their surplus poultry to use next winter. If freezer-locker facilities are available, freezing is the most desirable way to preserve poultry. Freezing takes less time than canning and the flavor of the frozen product is more nearly like that of fresh poultry.

Select poultry of good quality, and after dressing, wash it carefully in cold water and cool thoroughly. Birds for roasting should be drawn and the cavity washed out well. Roasters can be frozen whole. Remove the excess fat from the abdominal and wishbone cavities, wrap the giblets in freezer-locker paper, and place in the body cavity.

By cutting broilers, fryers, and stewing chickens into pieces you can wrap them firmer and pack them in smaller spaces in the locker. Necks and backbones can be used for soup stock.

At some commercial locker plants, both cutting and wrapping of chicken may be done for you. Put if you are going to wrap your own, here are a few suggestions: Use special freezer-locker paper; separate the cut pieces of meat with freezer-locker paper; wrap the amount needed for one meal in one package; wrap broilers singly or by twos; wrap each carcass for roasting separately.

See that the wrapping paper comes in close contact with the chicken and that the package is tightly sealed to prevent freezer burn or drying out. A piece of stockinette pulled over the package will help to hold the paper closer to the poultry. Cut chicken may be packed in cartons made specially for holding foods to be frozen.

If you are using a commercial locker, take the packaged poultry to the plant as soon as possible. In a home freezer-unit, place the packages in single rows in the quick-freezing compartment, 10 to 20 degrees below zero. Stacking packages in single rows while freezing allows cold air to circulate freely around each package and hastens freezing. After the chicken is frozen, packages may be piled one on top of another and kept at zero degrees.

Further details on freezing poultry are given in Circular 251 which you may obtain upon request to Mrs. Mary Jacoby Fleetham in the Agricultural Extension Office, 75 N. Main street, Doylestown, Pa.

RATS!

JERSEY CITY—(INS)—Jersey City will have to deal with its own rat problem this year unassisted by the county, according to a ruling by the Hudson County Board of Freeholders. What's more the situation will have to be dealt with in a hurry because those rats on the city dumps are becoming a public nuisance, even if they don't bother Mayor Frank Hague who lives a long block away on the twelfth floor.

ROAD CONTRACT SIGNED

GUATEMALA—(INS)—The Guatemalan government has signed a contract for completion of Guatemala's section of the Inter-American highway. There is a passable road from the border of El Salvador to Mexico through Guatemala but it will be improved and shortened by joint action between Guatemala and the United States.

GI SOAP OPERA
presented by Atlantic

It's Ultrawet—exclusive development of Atlantic's research division—that puts our fighting forces in a lather.

When America went to war around the world, GI's yelled for a soap that could be used in any water . . . rain-water, hard water, salt water . . . Arctic to Equator.

The dream product demanded had to be good for washing clothes, bathing, shaving . . . anywhere, any time.

The Army Quartermaster Corps produced this all-purpose super-soap . . . using Ultra-

wet as an ingredient. Ultrawet is included in official specifications for the soap.

Serving at every front (it's also used on battleships for fire-fighting foam). Ultrawet really is a peacetime development.

Atlantic scientists evolved it for industrial use in water containing chlorides, magnesium, iron . . . wherever ordinary soap doesn't lather well.

Today's Atlantic research is all for war—but out of it will come finer petroleum products for use in peace.

This newest development "Penns Woods", covers an area of 15 acres within the 100 acre preserve, where twelve nature trails provide a round-the-year display of Pennsylvania's native flora—trees, shrubs and plants.

In Dublin borough a large truck of an Allentown silk mill which was loaded skidded off the high crown of Main street and crashed into a pole during the height of the storm. The pole was split and a large transformer fell to the ground and the borough was without street lights for three hours.

The damage to the truck is estimated at $2,000.

A shed was blown down on the farm of Frank Brezas, along the old Bethlehem pike. A tractor in a field was blown for a distance of 35 yards.

The roof was blown off the house of William Rosenberger, Hilltown, as well as a porch. A machinery shed was damaged and also a chicken house.

Trees were uprooted on the farm of Peter Hozler and one tree fell on a heifer in a meadow, breaking its leg.

A barn was blown down and the roof taken off the house of Alfred Crawford, Hilltown, and a covering was blown off a well and carried over to the next farm.

A chicken house was also destroyed on the farm of Oliver Graff, Hilltown.

a 14-mile sector along the river.

Nazi official sources betrayed fear of the coming offensive when a correspondent at the headquarters of Field Marshal Walter Von Model, German commander in the west, reported that over 2,500,000 Allied troops were poised along a 450-mile front from the Alps to the sea, awaiting the signal for a climactic drive against the Reich.

On the eastern front, Russian armies converging on Riga made new progress toward the doomed Latvian capital in bloody fighting which reduced prepared Nazi defenses.

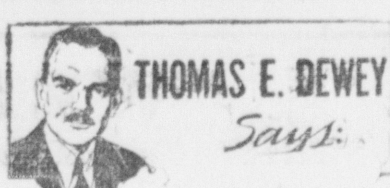

Other Soviet troops driving south from southern Poland lanced across the Czechoslovakian frontier, accelerating the drive of the northern wing of the Soviet pincers aimed at knocking Hungary from the war.

Red Army troops slashing four miles within Czechoslovakia seized the important railroad town of Vydran.

In aerial action squadrons of American Marauders and Mitchells roared across the channel from England to support ground forces battling on the western front. While the bulk of Allied planes swept out toward Holland, some formations headed for Calais and Dunkerque to pound German hold out garrisons.

On the Italian front American Fifth Army forces smashed back Nazi defenses in mountainous terrain above Florence after taking the heights of Bastione, Oggio and Canda dominating the main Florence-Bologna road. Further east other Fifth Army units drove ahead to gain on Inola.

From the southwest Pacific, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported that U. S. patrol bombers had sunk a 10,000-ton transport and damaged a 6,000-ton freighter transport off Jolo, in the Sulu archipelago.

Unity Needed

local governments has been a continuous source of friction for twelve years. There have been enough people spending their full time fighting each other over the question of jurisdiction and power between Federal, State and local governments to make up a small army.

"We conceive it to be our first obligation to bring agreement out of this chaos and to bring unity where there is only sub-unity now."

"It is for this reason that the Republican Party will make an effort to settle the area of responsibility. If we are successful, it means that the dangerous spectacle of petty bickering and constant confusion between the various units of government will come to an end next January 20."

Other American planes, striking with increased strength from the Celebes to the Solomons, continued to carry the relentless air war to Jap land, air and shore positions.

One Jap plane attempted to raid American positions on Morotai Island in the Halmaheras. The attempt was without success.

talled $1915.31, was quite good, and there was a steady demand, especially for the heavy stock.

Of the 11 cows offered, only three were sold for $75 to $135, and three of the eight heifers offered ranged in price from $35 to $90. Four bulls were offered, but only two were sold. They brought $41.50 and $60. Eight sheep and lambs ranged in selling price from $7.50 to $13.75, and six goats brought from $1 to $6.50. A horse went to the highest bidder for $34, and a mule brought $15.

Featuring the meeting of the Warrington Lions Club were informal talks by the members who gave brief accounts of their experiences in different parts of this country and in Canada.

The meeting, attended by 30 persons, was in charge of President Henry W. Garges, and during the business session Edward K. Wiest was welcomed into membership. Announcement was made of a ball game to be played at Warrington on Sunday afternoon, when the proceeds will be given to Arnold Blythe, who was injured in a game two weeks ago. The club's bowling team will be represented at the matches which will begin in Hatboro on Monday.

KNOW YOUR STATE

Pennsylvania is known throughout the entire world for its great

resources of coal, the high quality of its oil and its enormous production of iron and steel, cement and limestone. One natural resource in which the State is particularly well-endowed has made possible the development of all the rest. That is the abundant supply of its surface and sub-surface waters.

Along the courses of the Delaware, the Schuylkill, the Susquehanna, the Allegheny, the Monongahela and Ohio have grown up most of those great industries of the Commonwealth which have made its name familiar to the people of every land. Below the surface of the hills and valleys of our limestone area in the southeast of the State also lie hidden tremendous resources of subterranean water which finally break out to the surface in those enormous springs which attract visitors from many parts of our country.

Deep under the limestone rocks of Pennsylvania flow rivers which are today carving out the caves which will astonish the men of the future. The water of these subterranean streams is cold and clear with a year-round temperature that varies little above or below 50 degrees. When such streams finally escape to the surface, there results such an astonishing and seemingly miraculous flow of water as that familiar to us all at Boiling Springs in Cumberland County not far from Carlisle.

The flow of this spring, as measured by the Bureau of Hydrography of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, averages 22½ million gallons a day. This cold clear water, with an average of 53 degrees, bursts up from the surface of the ground at a rate of 15,000 gallons a minute and becomes at once the source of a considerable stream. The flow of this single spring would be adequate to supply the entire needs of a city of 200,000 people.

Three miles south of Boiling Springs, also in Cumberland County, is the Big Spring at Newville whose colder waters, with an average of 50 degrees, are discharged at the rate of 18½ million gallons every day.

jailed from the pay envelopes of American workmen; by a pressure organization to corner the votes of all those workmen who need their jobs; by the intimidation of Congress through the threat of retaliation in their home districts; and by the possible use of corrupt election procedures coupled with pressure voting to overthrow and shackle free elections.

To accept such a program would do violence to every public statement of political principle which President Roosevelt has ever uttered.

Both as a matter of self-interest and public welfare he ought to be fighting such a program tooth and nail.

This vicious giant, the Communist-P. A. C. plot, could have been scotched in the cradle; it could have been brought to heel in infancy by use of the Federal election code. But the time for such remedies now has passed.

The monster is now at large,—and the President is the inventor—the Dr. Frankenstein—in whose White House workshop it was created.

There is but one way now by which President Roosevelt can help destroy this political monstrosity.

That is by voting for the Republican Party's "racket-buster" Candidate for the Presidency, Governor Thomas E. Dewey.

BORDENTOWN IS DEFEATED, 7 TO 0, BY ST. FRANCIS XI

A Pass, Oppold to Cupo, Results in Touchdown For Eddington Team

LAST FIVE MINUTES

Bordentown's Only Opportunity Came in The Third Session

BORDENTOWN, Sept. 29.—A pass, Don Oppold to Mario Cupo, gave St. Francis Vocation School a touchdown yesterday afternoon which was enough to beat the Bordentown Manual Training School 7-0, on the latter's field. The game was originally scheduled to be played today but officials decided to play the game one day earlier.

The touchdown play came within the first five minutes of the game. Cupo broke loose on an end around run and clipped off thirty yards to bring the ball to the 10-yard strip. From here Oppold rifled his pass to Cupo for the touchdown. Oppold converted the extra point by hitting the line.

Bordentown's only opportunity came in the third session when a sustained drive with J. Johnson leading the attack brought them to the St. Francis 30-yard march. Here the Vocational School boys held for downs.

St. Francis lost a chance to score early in the final period when LaRowow got off with a brilliant punt to the Bordentown team. Here the pignin was fumbled and recovered by the Eddington team. But using his weight to a good advantage, the Jersey team held and received the ball on downs.

Although Cupo and Oppold made the touchdown possible, the playing of LaRowow stood out for the winners. LaRowow played both end and took Cupo's place in the backfield when the latter was injured. He made good at both positions.

It has been announced by Brother Beulide that the game with Bordentown will be played next Thursday on the Eddington field instead of next Friday.

Three Rotarians Are Honored for Services

ing Gordon Fromm. One new member, the Rev. W. Preston Haas, was welcomed into the club.

Following a brief historical sketch of the founding of Rotary different members outlined the aims of the organization. Rotary was started in 1905 by Paul Harris, a Chicago lawyer. In 1910 the International Rotary was formed. Today there are over 4000 clubs throughout the world.

John Slemmer, speaking on the first object of Rotary, the development of acquaintances, stated that in Rotary meetings we know we are among understanding and sympathetic friends.

High ethical standards in business and the professions, the second object of Rotary, was discussed by Otto Grupp, Jr., who declared that this object is the recognition of the worthiness of all useful work as an aid to society.

The third object, community service, was discussed by Dr. J. Fred Wagner who declared that the Rotarian applies this to his own personal business and to the community at large.

E. Leslie Helwig dwelt on the fourth object of Rotary, the advancement of international good will and understanding. He pointed out that military men, statesmen, and politicians have toyed for world peace without much success. Peace and good will cannot be forced on a people, and it is up to Rotary to tackle the great problem of world peace. We must understand the problems of other peoples and we must learn to recognize their differences. If we are to succeed, was the thought of Mr. Helwig.

BUNNIES ANXIOUS TO AGAIN DEFEAT GEORGE SCHOOL

Game Scheduled for Tomorrow Afternoon on High School Field

COACH MAKES DEBUT Undecided As To Starting Lineup for Opening Home Game

Anxious to break into the win column, the Bristol high school bunnies will inaugurate its home season tomorrow afternoon meeting the fast George School eleven. Last season, Bristol scored a 6-0 triumph over the George School gridders.

Coach Harold Stackhouse will also make his debut to the local fandom. The Bristol team played at Dunn Field, Trenton, last Friday night and lost by a 31-0 count. Coach Stackhouse came here from Cataqua High where he produced several championship clubs.

All week, Coach Stackhouse has been busy correcting the faults discovered in the game against Trenton Catholic. Stackhouse feels that his boys should have at least scored against the Catholic team although the Trenton club was much better than the locals.

The Bristol mentor is undecided as to whom he will have in his starting line-up for George School. It is almost certain that Howard Keyes will be at one of the end posts with the nod leaning towards Favoroso on the other end. Constantino and Feole look like the tacklers with Monachello and Lelinski being the guards. Center will be a toss-up between Lou Mari and Mickey Mandio.

An injury to John Parel will practically keep him on the sidelines in this contest. Joe McDevitt and "Toby" Oriola were also injured against Trenton Catholic but appear to be in shape for this week's contest. So it looks like John Capriotti and John Centonze will start in the backfield along with Bill Nyasse.

Coach Prescomb, of George School, still has several of his stars from last season in his line-up and his boys are out to avenge last season's defeat.

Morrisville High will play another game tomorrow night, meeting Riverside High under the lights at Morrisville. Starting time is given as eight o'clock. Morrisville was licked by Trenton High, 31-0, last week.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

BY JOE ELBERSON

Nine bass in one evening... Pat McGee, Linden street, took nine largemouths in a short stretch of the Canal in the Green Lane section one evening last week. Pat was using his old dependable Haye's feathered minnow which has been his standby for more than a score of years. "The bass were jumping all over—I had two on the first five casts—and I lost several in addition to the nine I landed," Pat told me.

Pheasants released... six crates of young birds were received from the Game Commission for stocking in this area last Thursday evening. Three crates were for the Edgely Rod & Gun Club and three for the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association. There were twelve birds in each crate.

I helped Bill Bossler, Game Committee chairman, release the birds assigned to the Bristol Club. Eighteen of the 36 birds were dead on arrival, and the remaining birds were in terrible condition. They were one of the worst lot of pheasants ever sent here. The Edgely Club probably experienced the same condition.

Delays in transportation from the Illinois game farm from which the Commission purchased the birds probably is the explanation for the poor condition of the birds.

A check the following morning in one spot where Bill and I had released four birds revealed that two of them had died overnight. There is a slight possibility that the Commission may replace a part of these birds before hunting season this fall.

Call to delegates of the Bucks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs... the next meeting of the Federation will be held next Monday evening, October 2nd, in the K. G. E. Building, Main St., Doylestown, at 8 p. m. Hope to see all the clubs from the lower end of the County represented. Don't have to worry about the upper-end clubs... they always have their delegates on hand.

Two thousand dinners... last Saturday morning a truck arrived at Silver Lake with a load of 2,000 large tadpoles. They make excellent bass feed and if there are enough bass in the Lake to take care of that many tadpoles they should certainly have some tasty meals in the next few weeks. The shipment came from the State Fish Hatchery at Torresdale. Superintendent Wopart, who drove the truck to the Lake, told me that he will be up again in a few weeks with another load of catfish and bluegills for the Lake.

Everyone is asking "Why?"... after the adult fishing contest conducted by the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association at Silver Lake on Sunday the question has arisen as to why there are no fish in the Lake, or if there are any, why can't they be caught. At least 150 men tried every type of lure and bait all day Sunday with no results. There was one legal bass taken during the whole day. The winning entry was a 14-ounce catfish! Your scribe shame-facedly admits landing the catfish and the bass. Both were taken on golden shiners.
